ABOUT BILL

Bill started his working life as an accountant with Virgin and quickly moved into investment banking in the City. He set up an international financial recruitment company which he sold to a Wall Street Bank in 2001. Since then he has been making his own investments.

When he founded Angels Den in 2007, he chucked out the rule book on Angel investment and was determined to make things happen for small businesses. Bill is passionate that all businesses with a good idea and a sound business plan should be able to access finance to get off the ground.

Angels Den now has the largest number of Angel investors registered in Europe and is expanding into Asia and America. A TV show for budding entrepreneurs is also in the making.

Bill is proud to be a maverick in the world of business with the strength of character to take on the dinosaurs still roaming the City.
